KENNETH MILLER FARM ISSUES A VOLUNTARY RECALL

NEW LEBANON, Ohio (March 18, 2016) – Kenneth Miller Farms of New Lebanon, Ohio issues a voluntary recall for shell eggs due to possible contamination with Salmonella enteritidis.

The eggs subject to recall include eggs sold from their farm directly to consumers, as well as eggs sold to Lucky's Taproom and the Mudlick Tavern.

Egg cartons associated with this alert are identified by Miller Farms, New Lebanon, Ohio.

The recall is the result of farm environmental samples collected by the Ohio Department of Agriculture which tested positive for Salmonella enteritidis as part of an investigation into illnesses reported by Dayton and Montgomery County Public Health.

The most common symptoms of salmonellosis are diarrhea, abdominal cramps, and fever within 12 to 72 hours after exposure to the organism. The illness usually lasts 4 to 7 days. Most people recover without treatment. In some persons, however, the diarrhea may be so severe that the patient needs to be hospitalized. Older adults, infants, and those with weakened immune systems are more likely to develop a severe illness. Individuals concerned about an illness should contact their health care provider.

The Kenneth Miller Farm is dedicated to quality products, and initiates this recall out of concern for the health and safety of its customers. Those who have recently purchased eggs from the farm may bring them back for a full refund. Consumers with questions or concerns are encouraged to contact the farm directly at (937) 696-2733.
