RE: Recall Announcement (ODA/ODH) 2016-73a8

Kellogg Company Voluntarily Recalls Certain Graham ProductsThree Spartan Fresh Selections cheesecakes may have contained undeclared peanut residue*

June 21, 2016 - GRAND RAPIDS, Mich – Kellogg Company is voluntarily recalling certain graham crumbs because they were made using Grain Craft flour which may have contained undeclared allergen peanut residue. To date, there have been no reported illnesses related to the affected product. The affected graham cracker crumbs were used in certain lots of cheesecakes produced in SpartanNash's Central Kitchen facility. The items had a sell by date of June 6-21, 2016, and they are no longer in the stores.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has stated that the amount of peanut exposure from the flour is low and not expected to cause adverse health effects in the vast majority of peanut allergic consumers. Consumers with severe peanut allergies should avoid the recalled products.

The recalled products include:
